

Technical Sales Representative

The Brett Group is one of Ireland's leading millers and grain merchants, handling 75,000 tonnes of native grain and marketing 160,000 tonnes of animal feed throughout the southeast. We wish to recruit an experienced Technical Sales Representative to service an existing and expanding customer base.

The candidate

- Should have technical knowledge of animal nutrition, sales and advisory skills
- Be highly motivated with a drive to succeed and work on own initiative
- Have previous commercial experience, a qualification in the industry is preferable but not essential
- Full drivers licence

The successful candidate will receive full product training and technical support along with an attractive remuneration and pension package including a company car.
